PCC to spotlight Samoan culture tomorrow

Chief Vaaimalu Toilolo and his Samoan villagers are looking forward to their special cultural day celebration at PCC tomorrow.

The festivities will start at 10 a.m. with a flag raising ceremony in the Samoan village. Following that, there will be a traditional kava ceremony honoring special guest J. Elliot Cameron, president of BYU--H.

Also planned are such activities as food preparation, tapa (bark) cloth printing, musical programs and games in the Samoan village from 11 a.m. until the village closes at dusk.

This year, the Center is fortunate to have the support and participation of several Samoan clubs in Laie community. Volunteers from these clubs will be performing as well as putting on some of the demonstrations in the village.

One of the highlights of the celebration will be a contest during the 3:30 p.m. "Pageant of the Long Canoes." Participating canoes will be judged on their decorations and spirit of their performers. Special awards will be presented to the top two winners in the Samoan village following the pageant.

Remember -- all the excitement will take place tomorrow, so plan on helping our Samoan brothers and sisters celebrate!

Evening show to start at 7

Beginning tomorrow, our evening show will be starting at 7 instead of 7:30 p.m. As you know, "Invitation to Paradise" gives off its fullest dramatic impact when it is dark and as the time of sunset changes throughout the year, subsequent changes of the show's starting time are made. The Hibiscus buffet dinner will be served in The Gateway prior to the show from 4 to 6:30 p.m.

Close to 1,500,000 have seen the current production of "Invitation to Paradise" since it premiered on July 14, 1978.

Center's golf tourney standouts recognized

Congratulations to the following golfers for placing tops in PCC's tournament, held last Thursday at the Hyatt Kuilima's course. The tourney drew 37 participants from PCC, BYU--H and Laie community.

Competition in the tournament was divided into three groups. Group A consisted of those with handicaps of 0-15, golfers in Group B had handicaps of 16-23, and those in Group C had handicaps of 24-36.

In Group A, Taeli Alohi of Recreation had the best gross score (lowest score before subtracting handicap) -- 76. Placing first in the net score category (best score after subtracting handicap) was Mani Tuia of Safety, who shot a 68. Elliot Ozu, PCC's Controller and head of the Business Division, and Susuga Finai tied for second place with a score of 69.

In Group B, Malae Schuster had the lowest gross score. Malae, who works in Maintenance, shot a 78. Jimmy Uyehara's score of 66 was the best in the net score category. Placing second was Uipa Tauilili with a net score of 69.

In Group C, First Aid Supervisor Tele Hill's score of 83 was the best in the gross score category. Administrative Assistant Carl Fonoimomana shot a 61 to capture first place in the net score division. Tying for second place were Fili Falevai and Lagi Tuliloa, who both shot a 65.

Coming up next is PCC's tennis tournament on Saturday, November 8. Sign-ups are being taken now in the Recreation office located near Hale Kuai. The registration fee is $1.

The tournament will consist of doubles competition in both men's and women's divisions. Play will begin at 7:30 a.m. Call Recreation at extension 153 for more information.

Lucky employees win free kau kau

Winners of this week's Kau Kau Snack Bar drawing are Kirk Garcia of Village Operations, P.J. Mea-toga of Maintenance and Uele Va'aulu, a canoe tour guide.

As the first place winner, Kirk won his choice of a Hawaiian plate or special lunch at the Kau Kau. P.J., who placed second, won a special lunch plate and third-place winner Uele won his choice of a soda, manapua or hot dog.

All PCC employees are eligible to win yummy treats from the Kau Kau each week. Here's how it works. Next time you're at the Kau Kau, ask the supervisor on duty for an entry form for the drawing. You'll be required to fill out your name, department, and the PCC extension number where you can be reached during working hours.

All the forms are put into a barrel and drawings for three winners are held every Monday morning.

Employees may submit only one entry form per week. And if you're a winner, you must claim your prize at the Kau Kau sometime during the week that your entry was drawn.

Free movie night next Friday

"Jason and the Argonauts" will be the exciting feature at PCC's free movie night coming up next Friday, November 7. Show time will be at 7:30 p.m. in the old theater.

As always, you're welcome to invite your friends and family to the show, but don't forget to also bring along your PCC identification card. It'll be the "admission ticket" into the theater for you and your guests.
