Center to Host Key Communications People

Sitting: I. Johnstone, K. Lynch, S. Fusimalohi, M. Evile. Standing: K. Haomae, Z. Ye, G. Lauriat, G. Iyechad, L. Va'a. C. Huh.

Ten Jefferson Fellows from the East West Center, all of them expert in the communications field in their home countries, will be guests of the Center today. The group constitutes the 1980 Jefferson scholars, and the focus of their studies at the East West Center is on issues related to development in the Pacific Islands. All were selected as Jefferson Fellows because they showed exceptional promise in journalism. They are individually pursuing journalistic research while in Hawaii.

Included in the group are: Maligi Evile, a producer with Te Reo o Aotearoa, the Maori and Pacific Island Service of Radio New Zealand. Mr. Evile is from Western Samoa. Sione Tu'itavake Fusimalohi, general manager of the Tonga

Broadcasting Commission. Karl William Haomae, news officer with the Solomon Islands Government Information Office. Chull Huh, assistant foreign editor of the Cho Sun Ilbo, one of Korea's major daily newspapers. Wenda Iyechad, assistant city editor and reporter with the Pacific Daily News, Agana, Guam. Ian Anthony Johnstone, a reporter with the documentary and features department of Television New Zealand. George Reynolds Lauriat, transport and energy correspondent for the Far Eastern Economic Review, Hong Kong. Kay Ellen Lynch, day editor for the Honolulu Bureau of United Press International. Leulu Felise Va'a, editor of the Samoa Times, Apia, Western Samoa, and Ye Zhixiong, sub-editor with the International News Agency, Peking.

We extend a warm Aloha to these guests, and hope they find our personnel here at the Center newsworthy!

Thanksgiving Reminder

Did you know that our Hawaii Temple was dedicated by President Heber J. Grant on Thanksgiving Day, November 27, 1919?

Although Thanksgiving Day 1980 is now past, we still have good reason to give thanks for the Temple which is such a beautiful reminder of the blessings we enjoy in our community.

"The Restoration" a Spiritual Experience

You may have noticed several PCC faces in the 200 voice choir that sang the "Restoration Oratorio" recently. Presented in both the Neil Blaisdell Center Concert Hall and the BYU--HC gymnasium, the event featured 44 members of the Honolulu Symphony Orchestra, and four soloists. PCC Employees sang in every section of the choir, and the Hawaiian Village Chief, Joseph Ah Quin, was the featured Baritone soloist.

PCC also presented a delighted Merrill Bradshaw, the composer of the oratorio, with an engraved koa bowl wrapped in tapa as a token of the choir's appreciation of his music. The comment most heard from those participating in the event and from those who attended was that the experience was essentially spiritual. All felt uplifted by the event and motivated to be better members of the church because of it.

Special Band Concerts Slated

Stake in New Zealand, and is a talented young actress, who is remembered for an excellent performance in the lead role of "The Diary of Ann Frank". She plays the piano and is skilled in ballet, as well as Maori Culture. Maori Chief Cleo Smith is planning to ask her to participate in the canoe pageant that day.

If you would like to meet a very talented and capable ambassador for the church, make it a date to greet Miss New Zealand this week in the Maori Village.

Musical Fireside

A special musical fireside will be presented at 7:00 p.m. on Sunday, November 30, at the Temple Visitor's Center. It is open to the community, and the program will be one of spiritual choral numbers, narration, and testimony by the Showcase Hawaii group from BYU--HC.

Elder J. Alan Price, Director of the Visitor's Center, hopes that many community members will take the opportunity to attend this Fireside and enjoy the new facilities of the Center.
